example, Pati et al., does not teach selecting a standard gene expression profile from a chemical genomic database and using correlation information related to that profile to determine a biological activity of a compound. Similarly, as currently amended, claims 10-12 directed to a system for analyzing chemical genomic data are not taught by Pati et al. In particular, Pati et al. does not disclose a system with a database comprising gene expression profiles, bioassay profiles and compound information for each of a plurality of standard compounds in the database. Consequently, Applicants respectfully request that the rejection of the claims as anticipated by the Pati et al. reference be withdrawn.

The Examiner also rejected claims 1-8 and 10-12 under 35 U.S.C. § 102(e) as anticipated by Bassett Jr. et al., (US 6,453,241 B1). As currently amended, claims 1-8 and 10-12 are not taught by Bassett Jr. et al. Bassett Jr. et al. does not disclose a method of analyzing chemical genomic data or system that includes a database comprising gene expression profiles, bioassay profiles and compound information for each of a plurality of standard compounds in the database. Consequently, Applicants respectfully request that the rejection of the claims as anticipated by the Pati et al. reference be withdrawn.
